Josiah Woltersdorf's Eagle Scout Project builds Veterans Memorial in Yacolt

As an Eagle Scout Project. Josiah Woltersdorf, the son of East Fork Frontier Neighborhood Association residents, Zack and Tammy Woltersdorf, spearheaded construction of a Veterans Memorial located in Yacolt. According to Josiah, the Yacolt location was selected "because of their rich history of men who have fought for our country, all the way back to the Civil War." The memorial consists of "a flag pole, stone and brick work, and rocks bearing brass plaques of each branch of the armed services." The dedication was held on November 14th in Yacolt.

Ray Vinnedge, a resident of our neighborhood association, pictured below with Josiah Woltersdorf, was honored at the dedication ceremony along with George Bennett from Vancouver as the only Pearl Harbor survivors there.

Proposed new substation and proposed new route segments,

No matter what we do, there are going to be 70 miles of landowners who are going to be unhappy," BPA Project manager Mark Korsness told Venersborg-area resident KenKraisler."

Excerpts from The Columbian 2009-10

Several inquiries have been made as to whether or not this will impact property owners in our neighborhood association. We have received copies of the map covering the area and it has been printed in The Columbian. As you can see, the existing line runs right through our neighborhood association but the new lines will be considerably further to the east.

COWBOY CODE OF ETHICS – What Wall Street Can learn from the Code of the West

James P. Owen, cowboy and author of "The Prudent Investor: The Definitive Guide to Professional Investment Management," as well as "The Prudent Investor's Guide to Hedge Funds" wrote the following:

"They stood for something. Authenticity. You can't fake being a cowboy."

- Live each day with courage.
- Take pride in your work
- Always finish what you start.
- Do what has to be done.
- Be tough, but fair.
- When you make a promise, keep it.
- Ride for the brand.
- Talk less and say more.
- Remember that some things aren't for sale.
- Know where to draw the line.

Our StreamTeam program proactively addresses the problems facing the Salmon Creek watershed. Since the voluntary program's inception in 1992, more than 600,000 trees have been planted to restore approximately 120 acres of land along 15 miles of stream length. We've also installed 10 miles of livestock exclusion fencing, two miles of bank stabilization and removed tons of garbage - literally! We do this with the help of dedicated people like you!

The StreamTeam is comprised of more than 500 volunteers who donate more than 3,000 hours of their time each year. Our volunteers come from a myriad of backgrounds including utility employees, Stream Stewards, scout groups, college students, youth groups and a variety of individuals. The StreamTeam is now accepting applications for an AmeriCops Restoration Team Leader and a Stream Restoration Coordinator.

We have a wide array of activities including:

- Tree planting
- Tree potting for our nursery
- Monitoring water quality
- Monitoring plant survival
- Project site maintenance
- Educational outreach

...events to fit everybody's interests!

Our events are popular with both individuals and groups! StreamTeam events are great avenues to meet new people. We also offer crew-leading opportunities for our more experienced volunteers. We welcome the young and young at heart. Our events are held rain or shine.

We supply all of the training, tools, supplies and refreshments. You supply the good company! You can help bring salmon back to Salmon Creek!

GARDEN MASTERY TIPS

WSU Master Gardeners of Clark County

EDIBLES

- Harvest sunflower heads.
- Harvest winter squash and pumpkins with two inches of stem. Store in a dry dark area at 50 to 60 degrees F. For more information, see October 2001 feature article Storing Pumpkins.
- Harvest apples and store. Keep at approximately 40 degrees F, 85% humidity. Rake and destroy leaves and windfall apples that may be harboring pests.
- Plant garlic cloves during this period. Plant some shallots, too.
- See Saving Seeds for ideas on how to harvest and store your own flower and vegetable seeds.
- If your rhubarb hasn't been divided in the past four years, this is the fall to do it.

- Apply ground limestone to vegetable gardens so it can act on soil pH before the next growing season.
- Use tree wrap to protect the trunks of young fruit trees from sunscald and rodents.
- Examine stored produce frequently for signs of spoilage and take appropriate action.
- Be sure to store apples and pears separately from other produce as they give off a gas which speeds the breakdown of vegetables and can change their flavor.
- Cut back the oldest and least vigorous stems on blueberries to a vigorous young shoot or to ground level. Thin twiggy branch tips and remove any broken, dead or diseased branches.
- Tie summer-bearing raspberry canes to wires and prune at 6 inches above the top trellis wire.
- Cut off the top sections of everbearing raspberry canes which fruited this fall, if you haven't done so already. The lower canes will fruit again next summer, but the berries may be small. For a fall-only crop, cut all canes to the ground.
- Cover dormant rhubarb and asparagus beds with manure.
- Order seed catalogs.
